

More micro on the rear skirt.

After sanding, it started looking really good. I copied the black cutting lines through the resing as the microballoons seem to be more covering and less transparent.

Doghouse area.

View on the passenger side. I think we are close to taking this baby off and cutting it to its final shape.

